Description: This camp is for ages 12-21, which use augmentative communication devices. The Authentic Voices of America Camp provides individuals with severe speech impairments the opportunity to enhance their community participation by developing communication skills using augmentative devices. This week-long residential camp, held at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater campus, offers participants the chance to gain a greater awareness of their abilities and to build their independence and self-confidence while having fun. Camp activities are designed to “unlock” the unique voice within each participant. The actual operational cost of the Authentic Voices of America (AVA) Camp is $1,400 per camper. The fee for each attendant is $195. We realize this fee may be prohibitive for some eligible campers. If your child is not totally independent for personal hygiene and all activities of daily living, he/she will need to bring an attendant to camp. The fee for each attendant is $195. Thanks to generous sponsors and fund raising efforts, AVA and UW-Whitewater are able to provide funding to those who need financial assistance. If you are unable to pay the full amount of camp tuition, please contact Jon Feucht at feucht@goldmail.etsu.edu or call him at (262) 473-3563 for information on possible funding.
